Overview

Variables

Variables can be used to provide dynamic data for various parts of a script.

They can be used to store values extracted from responses, and to assign values to headers in requests.

User Input

User Input fields are variables that whose values are requested each time a load test is started, such as when doing a Test Run of the solution.

Variables In Use

For variables that are in use, the instances are shown below the variable in the list.
